BANK OF AMERICA MARKET PRESIDENT TO PRESENT MANNA WITH GRANT

What: Bank of America to present a $15,000 check to MANNA. This donation will provide medically appropriate meals for people in the Philadelphia area who are at acute nutritional risk due to life threatening illnesses. With the overarching goal of improving health through nourishment, their goal in FY17 is to deliver 970,500 meals to 3,600 clients. These clients will also receive nutrition counseling from Registered Dietitians. At the budgeted cost of $4.18 per meal, a $15,000 grant from Bank of America enables MANNA to prepare and deliver approximately 3,588 meals.

Bank of America is committed to providing consistent access to food and support for financial stability that can be critical for those living with life threatening illnesses. Throughout the year, Philadelphia Bank of America employees contribute more than 9,000 hours to nonprofits like MANNA to help build pathways to economic progress by addressing the basic needs of the community.

When: Wednesday, December 7 at 10:30am

Who: James F. Dever, Philadelphia market president, Bank of America.
Sue Daugherty, Chief Executive Officer, MANNA
